HOTELS, RESTAURANTS, ETC.
THE GLENWOOD
A Summer and Winter Resort for Pleasure and Health.

Riverside, San Bernardino County, Cal.

THE GLENWOOD is universally recognized as one of the most beautiful and healthiest resort places in Southern California. It occupies an entire block of two and one-half acres, centrally located, with a wide range of fine trees, flowers and shrubbery. Around the buildings on both floors, are broad lawns, and a quarter of a mile in length, part of which are set aside for tennis courts, and the other for sunlight reaches every room, and they are all easy of access from broad halls and balconies. Daily, daily, new and more comfortable, and modest improvements to be found in a first-class hotel, which is a rare opportunity for fires when desired. Parlor, reading room, office and dining room, all on first floor, and a large sunroom on second.

Offer by permission—Riverside—

Publishers' Announcements.

THE LOS ANGELES DAILY TIMES has a regular, permanent, bona-fide circulation very much larger than that of any other daily paper in the city. It is the only paper that makes that of all the other daily papers here look like nothing. This class are prepared to submit to no one.

FOR ADVERTISING the TIMES has its own equitable scale of prices, based on circulation, and the rates charged by our other papers.

THE TIMES can be found at the news-stands of the Publishers' General Agency and Books House, San Francisco.

THE TIMES OFFICES are connected with the telephone system of the city, and these desirous to advertise in or subscribe to this paper can do so by calling the office.

TEN DOLLARS REWARD.—The proprietors of the TIMES will pay a reward of $10 for conviction of any person stealing the TIMES from the doors of its subscribers.

COURT REPORTS.—The reports of the trials of all causes, both criminal and civil, are collected from all quarters. Local affairs and news given the preference. Correspondents are also engaged to report the trials of criminal cases, concussions and timeliness to us one side of the sheet only, to enable us to take up the trials of every trial, and to those trials which receive no attention.

PUBLICATION.—The TIMES is printed in the printing office which the TIMES-MIRROR is printing, Binding and Baling House is not prepared to do the work, and we have no printing office in the State. Satisfaction guaranteed.

BOOK-BINDING.—Books, magazines and periodicals, and all kinds of paper cloth, skepkins, or in any style desired at the TIMES-MIRROR Bindery. Our work is guaranteed to be equal to that done in San Francisco.

OUR TRADE WITH MEXICO.

The increasing interest which the people of the United States and of California have in the Mexican trade, and the proposed reciprocity treaty between that country and ours, make the international trade statistics interesting and timely.

The TIMES has heretofore published the leading statistics of this trade, gathered direct from United States Consular reports, and we now reproduce them in another form as compiled by a contemporary from a Report on the Commercial Relations of the United States, published by the State Department. These statistics cover the years between 1858 and 1882 inclusive. From them it appears that the volume of trade between the two nations has steadily increased. In 1858 the total value of the imports of merchandise from Mexico into the United States was $1,108,501; in 1882 the imports of merchandise had increased to $8,461,899. The importation of jute and other grasses has increased in a rapid rate, their value being $50,173 in 1858, and $2,001,929 in 1882.

In 1858 the imports of India rubber and gutta percha in various forms were valued at only $143; in 1882 they were valued at $184,847. In 1858, hides, skins and furs were imported to the value of $496,929; in 1882 they were imported to the value of $1,525,107. The importation of live stock from Mexico commenced in 1872, when the imported animals were valued at $188,558, while in 1882 the value of live stock imported was $453,917.

The record of exports shows that in 1858 the exports from the United States to Mexico were valued at $3,312,853, while in 1882 they amounted to $15,582,882, including $2,158,077 of foreign merchandise. The increase has been steady on all articles of commerce, but especially noticeable in manufactures of cotton and in iron and steel and their manufactures. For instance, in 1858 the exports of iron, steel and their manufactures were valued at only $188,214, while in 1882 the value of these exports was $4,239,712.

The comparative growth of Mexican trade with the United States, Great Britain and France shows in favor of this country. In 1859 the imports from Mexico to the United States were valued at $1,244,084; to Great Britain they were valued at $1,851,747; to France, $810,600. The exports from the United States to Mexico were valued at $2,917,742; from Great Britain to Mexico they were valued at $3,150,308, and from France, $3,338,900.

In 1882 the imports from Mexico to this country were valued at $8,317,802; from Mexico to Great Britain $2,879,218, and to France $1,590,883. During the same year the exports from the United States to Mexico were valued at $11,717,248; from Great Britain to Mexico they were valued at $3,302,247, and from France to Mexico $8,998,140.

This increase of trade in the past, in which the United States has been the steady gainer, indicates very clearly the prospect of a further and more rapid increase when we shall have made a commercial treaty with Mexico, by which its terms will foster and encourage the enterprise of American merchants in the Mexican trade.

The proposed reciprocity treaty will come up for consideration by Congress next winter. The people of this coast, in common with those of the Southern Atlantic section of the Union, are directly interested in the enactment of a favorable treaty between the two nations, and boards of trade and other commercial organizations in the sections most concerned will doubtless make themselves heard on the subject in the form of memorials to Congress at its next December's session.

SHIRKING TAXES.

A northern exchange reports that a property owner in Butte county valued a cow and calf at $15, two hoes $15 each, one horse $5, two old sows and five shovels $10 for the lot, 240 acres of land at 75 cents an acre, and 240 at $1.25 per acre; and the presumption is that these values were accepted by the assessor. Commenting upon that statement, the San Jose Times says with force and truth:

If such valuations are permitted to pass it is no wonder that some get rich and others are taxed to death. This man values his 480 acres of land at an average of one dollar an acre, while he would probably feel insulted if offered the same sum for his property in some instances. How it will be done this year time will show.

It is in this way that the most flagrant inequalities in the imposition of taxes come to grow up, and the tax-shirker is allowed to escape his just share of the public burden through the complaisance, if not through the actual compulsion, of assessors. These officers should be held to a more rigid accountability. The true rule is the constitutional rule, viz., all taxation shall be equal, and property shall be taxed at its full cash value. If this were done, we venture the assertion that the tax levy could be reduced fifty per cent. in most of the counties of California. Reform in this matter is demanded in the interests of justice and equity. The power of public opinion should be brought to bear through the press, to the end that honest men, who are too conscientious to list their property below its actual cash value for the purpose of evading the payment of taxes, be no longer compelled to bear public burdens which of right belong to their neighbors, the tax-shirkers.

Another question, pertinent here, requires settlement on a more permanent, sound and uniform basis than that upon which it has rested heretofore. We refer to the interpretation by assessors of the words in the Constitution, "actual cash value." The State Board of Equalization, in its recent circular to county assessors, expressed the true view, in our opinion, and aptly supported it by apt citations from judicial and other authorities in several States. It is that a fair and reasonable interpretation of the words "actual cash value" does not justly put upon them in practice, viz: the actual cash value of the property at forced sale, but that these words mean the cash value of the property when determined by the prevailing and established values of similar property in the vicinity. The new instructions of the Board, based on this interpretation, will tend to correct the vicious practices which have heretofore prevailed in the assessment of property, and add millions to the tax rolls of the several counties.

We have already noted the fact that Senator Edmunds, in an interview recently, declared that he does not want the Presidency, and Governor Butler, in a letter, says that he (Butler) can't get it. There will be no lack of aspirants and candidates, however, unless ambition is dead in American politicians, and we have not heard of its demise. "And what a waste of time and space, after all, is this discussion!" exclaims the Washington Star. "The men most prominently mentioned today for the Presidency may not even consider possibilities when the time for choosing candidates arrives." This is a fact the truth of which is demonstrated afresh every four years, and yet it is as regularly forgotten. As a rule, the prominence which a Presidential aspirant attains three, two, or even one year in advance of the nominating convention of his party is not an encouraging sign of his ultimate success. This is especially true when it is a boom that has been systematically worked up. The people do not take kindly to candidates who have little inherent strength; they prefer to manufacture their favorite's popularity themselves, rather than have it made available to them by professional politicians.

A VIGILANT citizen writes to the Times, over the nom de plume of "Pro Bono Publico," giving timely warning of the danger of issuing bonds for municipal purposes unless surrounded by proper safeguards to prevent the possibility of jobs. The incurring of a municipal debt of one hundred thousand dollars is a serious venture, and should not be made without due deliberation. A suitable city hall and other city buildings, such as the legal and medical buildings, are to be found in Los Angeles, but the true policy is to enter upon the work of building them only when we see our way clear to the payment of the cost thereof within a reasonable period of time.

The record of exports shows that in 1858 the exports from the United States to Mexico were valued at $3,312,853, while in 1882 they amounted to $15,582,882, including $2,158,077 of foreign merchandise. The increase has been steady on all articles of commerce, but especially noticeable in manufactures of cotton and in iron and steel and their manufactures. For instance, in 1858 the exports of iron, steel and their manufactures were valued at only $188,214, while in 1882 the value of these exports was $4,239,712.
